SUMMARY

I am a junior front end web developer. In recent years, I have learned more and more about the world of web development. I started with drag-and-drop websites, continued to WordPress sites, and after deciding that this is the career I want for myself in life, I enrolled in web development studies.

today I'm able to code web projects from the beginning to the end, using the technologies I have learned.

If I had to answer the question why I would want to work as a web developer, the answer is for the feeling I have when I manage to solve a problem after facing a challenge.

I am looking to work in a company where I can challenge myself and develop my skills.
